Geri has extensive experience as both an advocate and a neutral.

She is equally skilled in the courtroom and other forms of dispute resolution. She has extensive experience in mediation, arbitration and civil collaborative law processes, as well as litigation. Geri's clients are executives, partners, employees, as well as companies and firms.

Additionally, as the author of a leading book on partner departures she works with law firms and lawyers in situations involving transition issues, discrimination, and partnership disputes, malpractice claims, sanctions, malicious prosecution, and contract differences.

Geri believes that client communication and personal attention are as essential as excellent lawyering.

Dispute resolution forums other than litigation can often be more effective as they offer a broader range of solutions.
