(and Why You Should Too!)

Social Event at Tonic NYC Immediately After the Panel!

The New York State Bar Association's Antitrust Section presents its annual program for law students and young lawyers interested in antitrust law on Wednesday, June 20, 2018. This program offers a great opportunity to hear perspectives on this dynamic and challenging area of the law from practitioners who graduated in the last ten years, including attorneys from law firms and antitrust enforcement agencies. Panelists will discuss what led them to antitrust law; provide details on the types of cases, transactions or other antitrust work they have handled; and offer insight into optimal positioning to capture a job in the field. A portion of the program will be allotted for questions and comments.

The program will take place at 4:30 p.m. (social event to follow at 6:30 p.m.) at the law offices of Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP at 787 Seventh Avenue. Following the panel, all attendees are cordially invited to a networking event with open bar from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at Tonic NYC, located at 727 Seventh Avenue. All law students and junior attorneys interested in the possibility of pursuing antitrust law as a career are encouraged to attend this informative and worthwhile event. RSVPs are requested by email to Sharon Ballard, at sballard@willkie.com. Please include in your RSVP your law school affiliation and summer or permanent employment, if any. If you have any questions please contact Wesley Powell, wpowell@willkie.com.

The program and networking event are complimentary.
