

Cross-Border Data Exchange: Addressing Procedural & Ethical Considerations for Attorneys for FATCA, CRS, and other Tax Exchanges

Practitioners face tremendous hurdles when it comes to FATCA, the OECD Common Reporting Standard (CRS), FBAR, and the Revised EU Savings Directive. Even if a practitioner does not deal directly with one of those regulations, they still face hurdles when dealing with client data between countries. Further, practitioners face challenges when understanding privacy, compliance, and security concerns. Whether dealing with a financial institution, a tax authority, or individual taxpayers, practitioners need to understand the technology and pitfalls. In an interconnected environment, technology is at the forefront for data interpretation and exchanged and attorneys are increasingly seeing themselves in technical discussions, especially at the conference table. Upon completion of this event, attorneys will know how to manage these challenges and provide guidance to their clients on key issues plagued by technology and regulations.
