International marketplace 2016:

Future growth

Date: Thursday 6 October 2016 Venue: The Law Society, London

Timings: 09:00 – 17:00, with a networking drinks reception until 19:00

This full-day conference will address the key issues facing firms looking to grow their established international activities, as well as those with commercial clients looking to explore opportunities abroad. Join us for a lively and engaging day of conference sessions, panel discussions and practical breakout groups.

The total export value of legal services is

£4.8 billion

Conference themes this year will focus on the role of international development banks in creating legal frameworks, how clients and firms be working together in the years ahead and robots v lawyers - on which side is technology?

In 2015, International marketplace attracted delegates from

Network with international delegations

We are delighted to welcome international delegations from emerging markets in Africa, Latin America, Europe, the CIS and Asia, who will be attending the event. 'The fact that leading law firms of the UK shared their experience and knowledge was very fruitful and beneficial for me. I met a lot of worthy colleagues with whom I would like to continue a long-term friendship as well as a business relationship.'

Who should attend?

- Top 200 law firms with established international activities.
- Firms with commercial clients looking to develop international opportunities.

The impact of Brexit

Please note this programme may be subject to change.

Brexit throws up a number of questions for law firms working internationally; not least: how will Brexit change the way firms and their clients work together across borders? Will Brexit have a positive or negative impact? What will the challenges and opportunities be in this post-EU scenario for the UK? Will new market barriers be created as a result, or are we able to opens doors previously closed to us? Which practice areas will undergo severe upheaval and which will remain largely unaffected?

Armed with the latest information of the day, we have incorporated a panel session to the programme which will provide expert insights on how the international marketplace will adapt to a UK outside the European Union.
