NEW YORK STATE BAR ASSOCIATION LABOR AND EMPLOYMENT LAW SECTION

Samuel M. Kaynard Memorial Law School Student Awards

Recommendations are now being accepted for the Samuel M. Kaynard Memorial Law Student Service Awards. The deadline for receipt of recommendations is the close of business on Friday, December 8, 2017.

The purpose of the awards is to enable New York State Law Schools to recognize excellence among their law students in the area of labor and employment law and to cultivate the relationship between the Labor and Employment Law Section and future labor and employment practitioners.

Samuel ("Sam") M. Kaynard was a nationally recognized expert in the field of labor law and labor-management relations.

Sam Kaynard enjoyed a long and very distinguished career as a labor lawyer that began at the National Labor Relations Board in 1946. He was one of only a few career employees of the agency to have enforced the National Labor Relations Act (also known as the Wagner Act) as originally passed in 1935, and later amended by the Taft-Hartley and Landrum-Griffin Acts in 1947 and 1959. Mr. Kaynard was most well known as the Director of the Brooklyn Regional Office of the NLRB, which he founded in 1964 and ran until 1986, when he retired from the NLRB after 40 years of dedicated service. That office is one of the NLRB's busiest, handling unfair labor practice cases and union representation elections in Brooklyn, Queens, Staten Island and on Long Island.

Following his retirement from the NLRB, Mr. Kaynard continued his practice at Proskauer Rose LLP (then Proskauer Rose Goetz & Mendelsohn) a national law firm with 475 attorneys. He was a valued source of insightful advice for the more than 100 lawyers at the firm who specialize in labor and employment law. He left the Proskauer firm in 1994 to become an arbitrator. He passed away in 1997 at his home in Roslyn Estates, New York. Mr. Kaynard was an active participant and supporter of many philanthropic organizations, including the UJA-Federation and the Labor and Employment Law and Employee Benefits Specialty Group.

After practicing law, Mr. Kaynard's greatest love was teaching it. Over the course of his career, he was a member of the faculty at New York University School of Law, from which he graduated first in his class and valedictorian in 1942. He also taught at Fordham Law School, Brooklyn Law School, and from 1986 until his death, the Hofstra University School of Law, where he was Professor Emeritus and faculty advisor to the Labor Law Journal. Law firms throughout the City and State of New York are filled with Mr. Kaynard's students. In addition to his academic pursuits, Mr. Kaynard was active in bar associations at the local, state and national level. He served on the Executive Committee of the Labor and Employment Law Section of the New York State Bar Association.

ELIGIBILITY

All law school students. Student(s) must be nominated by the dean or the dean's designee. Direct student applications will not be considered.

PRIZES

First prize $3,000, Second Prize $2,000, Third Prize $1,000.

GUIDELINES

The Award is intended to encourage scholarship and exemplary service in the field of Labor and Employment Law. The Award is made by the law school to the student(s) in recognition of an extraordinary accomplishment in the field, including but not limited to the following:

- (1) Organizing and/or conducting programs at any educational level conducive to the propagation of labor and employment knowledge and skills;
- (2) Outstanding performance in a labor or employment course, clinical experience, project, internship or related activity such as: a collective bargaining simulation, grant proposal to research labor and employment issues, curricular revision, or other exposition on the subject;*
- (3) Facilitating conflict resolution or peer mediation programs for elementary or secondary school students;
- (4) Utilizing the internet and its components (e.g. World Wide Web/e-mail) to disseminate or receive labor and employment information; or
- (5) A substantial action or activity in furtherance of labor and employment law, performed or instituted in the year of this competition.

* A written essay or article is excluded from this award category since the Labor and Employment Section's Dr. Emanuel Stein Memorial Writing Competition accommodates these submissions.
